The City of Glendale is pleased that Tanger Outlet Centers is locating in Westgate City Center. The official groundbreaking took place on Wednesday, March 14, although construction was already underway on the new 328,000 square foot center. Approximately 80 brand name and designer outlet stores are expected at opening. The modern design will feature a pedestrian friendly layout that will function as an open-air mall with both covered and uncovered landscaped courtyards and a park-like setting throughout the complex. Tanger Outlets Westgate will create 700-800 jobs during construction and about 900 full and part time retail jobs upon completion. The projected opening date is November, 2012.

ATTENTION!

In the coming weeks, the City of Glendale is updating the software system used for bulletins. Please watch for a message from the Information Technology Department with simple instructions how to switch your account to the new database. We are confident the upgrade will result in Glendale bulletins being much more user-friendly.

Have You Heard? The Glendale Civic Center will be the first conference center in Arizona to install the latest technology to enhance the quality of sound for its clients with hearing loss. The Civic Center will install an induction looping system after receiving a Deaf and Hard of Hearing grant with partial funding from the Arizona Community Foundation (ACF). This type of technology is comprised of a wire within the building that transmits an audio signal directly to a hearing aid, eliminating background noise, thus creating clear communication with speakers, musicians and presentations.

The new induction looping system is expected to be in place at the Glendale Civic Center by the end of the year. The venue offers nearly 40,000 square feet of rentable space for government, business and social events, and is the largest public meeting conference center in the West Valley and one of the largest in the state.
